

Biochemistry Junior Resident Wins International Federation Of Clinical Chemistry & Laboratory Medicine – Task Force Young Scientist Award In ACBICON 2017, KGMU, Lucknow.

Dr. Rakchna M, II-year Junior Resident, Department of Biochemistry, has won the International Federation Of Clinical Chemistry & Laboratory Medicine – Task Force Young Scientist Award along with a cash prize of Rs.5000/- in Association of Clinical Biochemists of India National Conference 2017 held from 3rd to 6th December at KGMU, Lucknow. She presented the research paper titled “Association of Osteoprotegerin Level with Cardiovascular Risk in Diabetic Subjects is Independent of Age, Body Mass Index and Body Composition”. The work was done by Dr. Rakchna M & Ms. Jasmine MR under the guidance of Dr. Nivedita Nanda, Associate Professor, Department of Biochemistry. The co-guides were Dr. Velkumary S, Additional Professor, Department of Physiology & Dr. Jaya Prakash Sahoo, Associate Professor, Department of Endocrinology.

