

NATIONAL WORKSHOP ON HOSPITAL INFECTION CONTROL

6th to 10th February 2017

Dear Doctors

The Organizing committee is happy to inform that there was an overwhelming response from the microbiologists across the country to participate in the 1st National workshop on Hospital Infection Control JIPMER, Feb 6th-10th 2017. We have received, more than 200 applications from every state of India. The selection was not that easy. The criteria which were applied for selection were – i) only one candidate per college, ii) no. of candidates per state/UT should be proportional to the total applications came from each state/UT, iii) candidates working in / involved in infection control activities of their hospital were given more preference, iv) Although we have taken few participants from corporate and PG/resident group to have variety in selection, but preference was more given to medical college than corporate (as infection control is relatively poor in colleges than in corporate) and to faculty group than PG/resident group (as the chance of implementing/augmenting HICC after the workshop in their own institute is more likely for a faculty than a PG ). After applying all these criteria also, we found very difficult to select the list. We deeply apologize for the applicants who were not selected. However, preference will be given to these applicants if they apply next time.
