

1. Research Paper Wins Prize:

Dr. Medha R., Assistant Professor of Biochemistry was awarded the "FIRST PRIZE" for the research paper entitled "Vascular endothelial growth factor levels in patients with chronic urticaria" at the International Conference on "Updates in Research Ethics and Research Methodology 2013", organized by Collaborative International Training Initiative (CITI) of University of Miami, USA and CITI-India, Sri Ramachandra University on 4th and 5th March 2013 held at Sri Ramachandra University, Chennai. This paper is currently In Press-Accepted Manuscript [6 April 2013] in the journal-Clinica Chimica Acta- (Impact Factor 2011-2.535).

Related work has been presented at AMBICON-2012 and SFRR-2012. Related research reports from this project entitled "Platelet oxidative stress and systemic inflammation in chronic spontaneous urticaria" and "Platelet activation in chronic urticaria and its correlation with disease severity" are In Press-Accepted Manuscripts [March 2013] in the Journals-Clinical Chemistry Laboratory Medicine (Impact Factor 2011-2.15) and Platelets (Impact Factor 2011-1.847) respectively.